

1 bring this up.

2 The proposal to consider this matter in its 3 entirety, by the Committee of Personal Rights, came from 4 England. It arose from the discovery that in England they 5 were using a verdict, I think it was ten out of twelve, 6 either ten or eleven out of twelve jurors. I hope that the 7 question can be divisible because I would like to support
8 that phase of it separately from the question of the lesser 9 number of jurors. Also, the British are not using it in 10 capital cases, I believe, even with the 12-man jury, with 11 the ten or eleven jurors voting for conviction.

12 I think it is excluded from capital cases.

13 THE CHAIRMAN: For what purpose does Delegate
14 Johnson rise?

15 DELEGATE JOHNSON: Mr. Chairman, to ask Delegate
16 Henderson whether or not he would accept an amendment to his 17 amendment, and may I state my reason?

18 THE CHAIRMAN: You have to state the amendment
19 first.

20 DELEGATE JOHNSON: I was wondering if Delegate
21 Henderson would accept an amendment to his amendment so that
